

QUAD One & All,

It's amazing to watch Ken Griffey hit a baseball or watch Michael Jordan perform on the basketball court in the playoffs, but I have to tell you of some athletes I respect even more. Participants in the Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield QUAD Games are athletes that participate in sports for the purest and truest reasons - to be the best they possibly can be.

And it's not always easy.

As hard as the elite swimmers have to train to swim in the low -50's or under a minute, it's every bit as difficult and awe-inspiring for QUAD Athletes with little or no swim background to come out and tough out the hundred yards in three, four and five minutes. How easy to make an excuse, to blow it off, to rationalize a reason not to participate, yet nearly four hundred of you came out and conquered what is easily the most anxiety laden QUAD event. You took on this challenge with enthusiasm and are athletes in the truest sense of the word.

But how about the rewards? Following the nerve-racking anticipation as your swim heat draws near, comes the very visible relief and joy of achievement. Ken Griffey probably feels good after hitting one out but can it really top the pride you felt as you watched your son or daughter complete the QUAD swim? Michael Jordan can lead his team to another NBA title but how great did you feel when you went under two minutes or three minutes for the first time or broke another barrier to swim your best time ever?

We salute all of you who participated, those of you who took advantage of the swim clinics and those that achieved their goal or attained personal record.

The Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield QUAD Games are many things to many people but if you set the goal to complete the swim, look inside at the result booklet and take great pride in reading what you and your family achieved.

The Bike Race is just around the corner. Don't forget to pick up your Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield Bike Race workout book at HealthPLACE or give us a call at 871-6765 and we'll send one to you.

And we'll see you at the bike race on July 19.

Sincerely,

Pete Sitter
Director, Market Management and Communications
