

Dear Fellow QUAD Participant,

The very first thing I want to do is applaud and laud a tremendous effort by a tremendous group of volunteers at the Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield QUAD Run. That they did a seamless, wonderful job is something that I want to shout from the roof tops. More than anything that day, Ron Vavala in his farewell QUAD appearance, Rett Walker who is so QUAD savvy, Joe Staab bringing out the invaluable Cardiac Fitness Club and two great young men, James Meabon and Nathan Latimer all very capably went about the task of getting jobs done before it was ever apparent they needed done. All this left me with nothing to do but go for a run. By the time Ron Vavala so ably handled passing out awards, I felt like the QUAD Game's biggest slacker.

I don't want to make it sound like putting on the QUAD Run is rocket science (uh, it's not) but to be able to take my entire nineteen-year load of anxieties and race organizing habits and have them so clearly in the hands of such competence gave me a very secure feeling and helped me to see why so many people have fun at the QUAD. I surely did.

Sincerely,

Craig Latimer
QUAD Participant.
