Dear Highmark QUAD Participant,

The reason for my feverish dash to the bicycle immediately after saying “Go!” to start the QUAD Run goes way back into the Halls of QUAD Memory.

Many years ago when the run was held in Fairview, there was a section of the route that had an out-and-back portion which I felt required a few traffic cones to keep the runners separated. As it played out, four of the lead runners mistook one of the cones for the turnaround point, rounded it and began trekking back to the finish line of what would be a very abbreviated QUAD Run. Fortunately the next runner coming by knew the correct course and kept the hundreds of runners following on the right path (thank you Chris Borgia wherever you are.)

Terrified of such a thing ever happening again, I have from that day insisted on leading the runners through the course on my bike to make absolutely sure no one lost their way. It was very soon that I realized there would also be a tremendous side benefit to this path finding: I would be an annual witness to some of the most amazing foot races ever held our region.

Sure, there have been times when a runner broke from the pack and won going away but there have been many more years where I watched as two, three, four or more finely tuned athletes created an exciting five mile duel that was mine alone to watch.

The best battle of all time? Well, that’s a tough call but there are few that could match the epic that Todd Shatynski and Dan Pierce put together on the streets of North East at the QUAD Run just past. In an era of over hyped, over paid and over chemistred (I just made that word up) professional athletes, let me tell you it was an awesome sight to watch two guys running stride for stride for sheer effort and pride on a beautiful day in September.

It’s just as exhilarating to stand at the finish line once I get back with the leaders and watch runner after runner (and walker) complete the five-mile goal, most all of them with a big smile and a bigger sense of accomplishment.

If anyone ever wanted some inspiration to get themselves to move from the sideline to the starting line and head toward the finish line of the Highmark QUAD Games, a great place to start is to watch the effort each of you make once that skinny guy with the glasses says, “Go!”

And I guess that’s the next step I’m going to take.

Sincerely,

Craig Latimer
Coordinator, Highmark QUAD Games

Blue Cross Blue Shield

An Independent Licensee of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association

For quality

We provide more than access to quality healthcare. We offer lifestyle improvement programs and 24/7 support from a registered nurse through Blues on CallSM. We provide information to help evaluate options with your doctor, and operate the Highmark Caring Place for grieving children and their families. Because at Highmark, we believe quality of life is the whole point of healthcare.
